

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

KARNATAKA SOAPS AND DETERGENTS LTD is a completely government claimed association which incorporates extraction of sandalwood oil and assembling of sandal cleanser. Aside from sandal cleanser the association additionally makes different sorts of items like cleansers, Agarbatti, bath powder and so forth

The examination strategy which is embraced in this investigation is clear exploration to consider different viewpoint and the information is gathered through essential information assortment by communicating with organization members and another technique utilized is auxiliary information assortment by experiencing different organization magazine, paper and sites.

The investigation is led to realize how stock administration is done in the association for this method like ABC examination, FSN investigation is utilized and furthermore different proportions like current proportion, stock turnover proportion, working capital turnover proportion, fixed resource proportion, return on resource proportion

Chapter 1 explains the introduction to the soap industry considering the Indian and world context. And also gives brief information about the company profile.

Chapter 2 Theoretical aspects are presented in this chapter based on the topic and my thesis research paper called Stress Management.

Chapter 3 this chapter contains- problem statement, study title, research objectives, scope of study, study requirement, research methodology, limitations of the study.

Chapter 4 in this chapter, the data collection is done using some tools and data taken to present relevant and necessary data in the form of tables and graphs and what interpretations are obtained.

Chapter 5 Findings are presented from the data collected and the observed data suggestions are given to the organization and the conclusion of the study is taken.