- 8 Case Study (Compulsory) :

Mr. Anvesh is a supervisor in an engineering firm in Mumbai. Employee morale in his office is quite low. The workers now have gone back to their regular, 9:00 am to 5:00 pm work schedule, after being on flexi time for nearly 2 years. When the directive came, allowing Anvesh to place his office on flexi-time, he spelled out the rules carefully to his people. All the employees were to work during the core period from 9:00 am to 2:00 pm. However, they could work the rest of 8 hours day, any time between 9:00 am to 6:00 pm. Anvesh believed his workers were honest and motivated; so he did not bother to setup any system of control.

Everything went on well for a long time. Morale was high and all the work seemed to be done. In November 2015, the chief factory manager found that Anvesh's workers were averaging 7 hours a day. Two employees had been working only during the core period for more than 2 months. When Anvesh's departmental head received the factory manager's report, he told Anvesh to return to the regular working hours. Anvesh was upset and disappointed with his people. He had trusted them, but felt that they had let him down.

Questions:

- a. Do you think Anvesh failed to understand the behavior of his employees while controlling them? (05 Marks)
- b. Does flexi-time at work bring in productivity to the organization? (05 Marks)
- c. What techniques are to be adopted to boost employee morale at workplace? (05 Marks)
- d. What are the factors responsible for job related attitudes? (05 Marks)
